Who We Are

The Festival has a loyal audience from the local community who expect to enjoy excellent performances of familiar works and to be introduced to new works that expand their experience.

Programs are carefully designed to balance this expectation with the need to intrigue and excite the students participating in the educational component of the Festival who may have only limited knowledge of jazz, blues, classical and chamber music.

The resulting series of concerts provides a mix of material recognized for its strong character and occasional challenge attracting concert-goers from the surrounding area.

Where it all began...

Since 1992, KSMF presents concert programs performed by professional artists of international stature and diverse cultural backgrounds, and includes local and regional musicians. KSMF is a not-for-profit Registered Charitable Corporation. Our students and audiences are people of all ages and a wide range of musical abilities and experience.

Since the beginning, we have had a variety of performers and staff of the festival who are musicians from all over Canada.

During the pandemic we teamed up with Prévile Fine Arts Centre, near Montreal to offer virtual classes for all, and now in-person children's classes.

Looking Forward

KSMF plans to focus on developing classes designed for seniors including choir, art, music and dance.

We will continue to grow and develop our children's program to include more sessions for students supported by amazing instructors.

We would like to see the festival continue to grow and thrive in the great town of Kincardine.
