Dear Ministers,

Subject: COVID-19, and Heritage Places Sector Recommendations for Recovery

The National Trust for Canada and its undersigned national, provincial and territorial partner organizations are reaching out to your respective ministries to applaud relief measures to date, and recommend recovery measures that will capitalize on shovel-ready projects, create new green jobs, spur private investment and contribute to community resiliency over the long term.

We recommend that the Government earmark at least $200 million in stimulus funding to unlock billions of dollars in capital construction and other investments at older/heritage buildings. This funding would target the renewal, retrofitting and adaptive use of revenue-generating space, the creation of affordable housing and more; and would help nonprofits and charities renew cultural infrastructure and social purpose real estate.

Why? Because investments in existing older and heritage places are an ideal target for economic recovery and community infrastructure programs:

- Shovel-Ready Projects exist across Canada in urban, rural, and Indigenous heritage places;
- Projects at existing buildings create 21% more jobs than new construction, with less “leakage” out of the Canadian economy for foreign goods;
- Funding will leverage private sector investment and other financial instruments;
- Adaptive use and retrofits of existing buildings reduce GHG emissions and demolition waste, and capitalize on materials, energy, and sunk carbon already invested;
- Investments in their infrastructure will provide increased stability for the charitable, non-profit and tourism sectors; and
- Healthy and vibrant main streets and neighborhoods strengthen social cohesion and drive local economies.
What our recommendation will accomplish:

The potential for stimulus investments targeting older/heritage buildings is vast: Many billions of dollars in capital repair, energy retrofits and adaptive re-use could be generated at some of the 437,000 pre-1960 commercial and industrial properties; 1,000,000 pre-1960 apartment units; 27,000 places of faith; as well as thousands of institutional buildings in private and public ownership. Stimulus investments can leverage at least 5 times more in private investment, create new green jobs; renew, adapt and retrofit existing infrastructure; produce new revenue-generating space; create new affordable housing units and more.

Similarly, investing in the renewal of cultural infrastructure and social purpose real estate owned or operated by charities and nonprofits – historic sites, museums, cultural hubs, places of faith, Indigenous heritage places, lighthouses, former residential schools, cultural landscapes etc.– will ensure much-needed capital work and/or improved visitor amenities to help them compete in the global tourism market, and will spur creative new uses.

This approach will reach beyond major cities and have immediate and measurable impacts on the economies of small town and rural Canada. Funding could flow without delay to projects large and small through existing mechanisms such as Regional Economic Development Agencies, the Cultural Spaces Canada Program and Parks Canada’s National Cost-Sharing Program for Heritage Places.

It can also be used to support participation in national celebrations like Canada Historic Places Day that generate awareness and encourage Canadians to explore special places virtually online, and visit historic places close to home when the doors re-open. In parallel, there is great potential to leverage corporate philanthropy and crowdfunding and generate public awareness using proven high-profile crowdfunding tools like This Place Matters.

We will follow up with each of your ministries to request an opportunity to discuss our recommendations in more detail. We would be pleased to work with Government to establish criteria and delivery strategies for infrastructure investments that make better, wiser use of the buildings all around us.

Yours sincerely, on behalf the undersigned organizations listed on the following page,
